Last year we participated in several large evictions culminating at Dale Farm from Sept 2011 to November 2011, at Dale farm we supplied security backup for bailiffs and carried out Video evidence with our Evidence Gathering Teams of which we had five teams of two operatives, the evidence was used during the operation to refute claims, and was handed over to the council and the Police on two external hard drives at the end of the operation our services are: Confined space rescue, Eviction security and support, Evidence gathering Teams, Manned Security, Vehicle security, Close Safety policies, Risk Assessments and method Statements. This year we have been offered a contract in the Middle East supplying armed maritime security for a shipping company, that has 13 ships moving around waters that have pirates operating in them, namely the Persian Gulf, The Red Sea, Indian Ocean and the East coast of Africa. We will be embarking on ships from four different areas, The Red Sea, Muscat, Galle in Sri Lanka and Trulear in Madagascar. As we are moving into this market we thought it wise to look at affiliating our company with organisations such as SAMI, which we are hoping to complete soon.

Our core business is close protection, but we also carry out asset protection operations, as well as investigations. We are a small company, but strive to provide an effective & professional service to our clients. We have protected people from the Italian soccer team to business personnel both local & international. South Africa has on average 50 murders per day & numerous robberies & attacks on both people & or assets. Unfortunately with both low standards & accountably in the police force, this has a negative knock on effect to the security industry; this is where I feel that having an organisation such as ICoC can be of great benefit for the industry & also potential clients.

Our belief is that this can normally be achieved without resorting to arming our people. When there is no alternative but to arm however, we provide not only people with a lifetime experience of weapons at sea, but also re-qualify them as part of mobilisation, certificating them accordingly for clients’ peace of mind. IMSA has also put much thought into the difficult question of responsibility when weapons have to be used in anger on board a civilian manned ship. The company’s solution has resulted in an innovative approach to rules of engagement or rules for the use of force which goes a long way to removing the headache of “Who’s in charge?”. IMSA’s training department teaches ISPS Code accredited Ship, Company and Port Facility Officer Security Courses. IMSA is accredited, approved and audited for training by TRANSEC (UK) and MCA (UK). IMSA is an approved provider to the UK Career Transition Partnership and as such is fully audited and approved by the same organisation to the criteria attached.

Marine Pirate Busters core staff protected a pirated vessel and aided in the recovery. There is no better test than this. Our solutions worked and we improved them even further after this once in a life experience. Our final layer of protection remained impenetrable after a two day assault. Not even the Special Forces that came to the rescue could penetrate the citadel. Our anti boarding equipment has been adjusted to overcome weaknesses exposed by the pirates. There is no better system available and it exceeds BMP4 recommendations. We offer armed security as a good top-level, short term solution especially when a vessel needs to be hardened while transiting risk areas. But we anticipate that the industry will call for more cost effective alternatives. This is our focus and specialty. Soldiers do not develop weapons and we invested in engineering design at an early stage to offer future solutions right now. Can your vessel be navigated from the citadel?

Maritime Defence International was founded in 2011 by a group of highly-experienced ex-service personnel from the Royal Marines, the Royal Navy and the British Army who had identified and carefully analysed the nature of the threat of Piracy to the Merchant Shipping Industry. With Operational Headquarters in Sunderland in the North East of England, we offer a complete Security Service to Merchant Shipping, particularly in the Gulf of Aden, along the East Coast of Africa and in the Indian Ocean. In advance of undertaking any contract, we carry out a stringent Security Audit based on client needs. From the Audit we structure a bespoke operational scheme, taking account of the profile of the crew, the nature of the vessel, its cargo and its planned Sea Route. We then recommend an operational schedule to cover Armed Transits, Un-Armed Security Teams and Crew Training. Our basic Mission is to provide highly-trained and dedicated personnel committed to the protection and peace of mind of Ship-owners, Masters and Crew whose Vessels operate in high-risk Seaways.

Secure a Ship provides a mixture of Ex Special Forces and specialist UK military teams to accompany a vessel in high piracy threat areas. The team’s main objective is to protect the vessel, its personnel and its assets by preventing any kind of intervention by the increasingly well-armed and well-organised pirates. Our team will embark on the ship prior to entering a high risk area and will advise on ship defences and carry out crew training. Twenty Committee was established as a corporate intelligence service offering key intelligence to business providers in Scandinavia. Within the last year it was apparent that we needed to adapt our Maritime Division to help facilitate the needs of our clients. This in turn led us to recruiting Special Forces marines from the Finnish Defense Force and Jagger Brigades who were between contracts. We offer our clients armed escorts from Djibouti to end destinations whether that be South East Asia or indeed Africa. At this point I should state that we believe in an intelligence lead approach to practice. We are looking to use CART systems to identify live attacks taking place as well as FLIR systems and AIS interaction software so we can over map live intel with historic intel. All vessels are risk assessed and the best advice is given to the skippers and crew on how best to keep secure during voyage. Its not just a case of putting men on boats with weapons. If we can avoid trouble we will but not at the expense of the client.
